The National Health and Medical Research Council (NHMRC) recommends that all educators and other employees are immunised against:

- Pertussis (Whooping cough) – this is especially important for educators and other employees caring for the youngest children who are not fully vaccinated.
- Measles/mumps/rubella (MMR) – for educators and other employees born during or since 1966 who do not have vaccination records of two doses of MMR, or do not have antibodies against rubella.
- Varicella (chickenpox) – for employees who have not previously had chicken pox.
- Hepatitis A – young children may not show any symptoms however, they may be infectious. Additional vaccinations are recommended for special categories of educators and other employees:
- Hepatitis B – for educators and other employees who care for children with intellectual disabilities. Although the risk is low, seek advice about hepatitis B immunization if the children are unimmunized. Immunisation of the children should be encouraged.
- Japanese encephalitis – for educators and other employees who work in the outer Torres Strait Islands for one month or more during the wet season.
